PREFACE

First of all, praise to the Lord, Allah who is the Almighty who has given us mercy and blessing, so I can accomplish this book well.

“A Guide to Teaching English for Everyday Conversation (First Edition)” is written to fulfill the need of university students learning English based on their disciplines. Since ESP books which may satisfy students’ demand for mastery of overall skills needed for building their English communicative competences in their academic worlds are rarely found, this book is designed to provide an opportunity for students to develop their English skills more communicatively and meaningfully.

This book consists of theory and practice of speaking and everyday conversation. Consequently, to ensure effective English teaching and learning classrooms, teacher of this book should be able to make the best use of the English materials prepared here. Though this book has been revised to match the students’ real demand in their academic lives, the writer will surely welcome any constructive criticisms and suggestions for better edition in the coming year.

I dedicate this book to my beloved parents (KH. Abdul Chamid, Rofi’ah, and Hj. Antin Nursholehah) and parents in law (H. Subani and Hj. Sringatun), my wife namely Ririn Nurhayati, S.TP., S.PD., and my children namely Maharani Zakiya Kaffiddien as a doctor candidate and Reihata Jannati Zakiya Kaffiddien also a doctor candidate, and my relatives who have always supported me to get my safety, happiness, idea in the world and afterworld.
